April Fool’s Day!

Are you a prankster? Did you pull any fun tricks this April Fool’s Day? Here are some harmless tricks to keep in mind for next year!

1. Office prank: If you’re stuck at the office, try unplugging your neighbor’s mouse while they have their back turned. It is something fast and easy that won’t risk any of the work they happen to be working on. If you have more time to really trick them, try changing the cursor to the hourglass image as suggested by AprilFoolZone.com. On most computers, go to Start->Settings->Control Panel->Mouse, and select the “Pointers” tab. Then change the cursor to the hourglass image. Now the victim will think their computer is stuck on a task endlessly.

2. School prank: For those in school, scare a classmate with an unexpected test. As you are walking into the classroom, ask one of your classmates if they are, “ready for the test today?” Have a friend walk with you to confirm there is a test and watch them panic!

3. Clothes prank: No matter your schedule, you are never too busy for a prank, like this one suggested by AprilFools.com. Find a spool of thread that matches your shirt and hide it in your pocket. Leave a length of thread hanging out. Your victim will see it and try to pull it out. It will keep coming and coming! Try it while you are waiting in a line today or while you are running errands.

4. Drink prank: If you have made it through the day without being able to perform a prank, there is still time! AprilFoolZone.com has you covered. If you are hanging out with some friends, tell them you know a great trick. Put your hand palm-down on the table and balance a full glass of water on the back of your hand. Bet your friend that they can’t balance a glass on both hands at once, with your help to put them in place. As soon as you have the glasses balanced, stand up and walk away. They will be trapped and will have to spill the water to escape. Let the others in your group know beforehand so they can go along with it!
