

Lehigh Valley Cultural Resource Guide

We have gathered a number of culturally diverse businesses and organizations within Allentown and the Lehigh Valley in this guide to provide a sampling of the many diverse cultures, social identities, faith traditions and experiences represented in our vibrant community and to help members of the Muhlenberg community identify and locate these resources in the Lehigh Valley. While we have made an effort to produce a broadly inclusive guide, we know that our list is not comprehensive and will change over time, existing as a living, regularly updated document at the College.

If you have suggestions for additions or changes to the guide, please contact S. Brooke Vick, Chief Diversity Officer and Associate Provost for Equity and Inclusion, at brookevick@muhlenberg.edu.

“When I first moved to Allentown I had no idea how richly diverse the area was—but in the wide and always growing variety of restaurants and food shops I soon discovered not just extraordinary cuisine but a community of people setting down roots in the Lehigh Valley just as I was. The Middle Eastern, Asian, and, especially, Hispanic restaurants from across the hemisphere have become for me centers for meals, meetings, and the friendships and collaborations that good will and better food always inspire.”

“As a Black woman, when I first moved to the Lehigh Valley, one of my first questions was “where can I go to get my hair done and how far will I have to drive to get there?” When I discovered that there was not one, but many options for me to choose from right around campus, I was thrilled. The Lehigh Valley boasts haircare services for so many different ethnicities and identities, ranging from Dominican salons to trans-friendly shops, that none of us need to go far to find someone who can keep us looking good!”

The Lehigh Valley is home to a rich diversity of faith communities. My family and I found our home at one of the local synagogues soon after arriving here, and we were happy to discover the strong spirit of collaboration that exists between congregations on programs and initiatives that transcend the walls of individual places of worship, denominations, and religions to bring people together.”

The Allentown community is diverse ethnically and racially. There are vibrant social justice programs and events throughout the valley. There is an active youth-led Black Lives Matter organization and a Freedom School for young people K-12 where students learn about their heritage and develop pride in their history while strengthening academic skills. The Lehigh Valley hosted their first regional Juneteenth Celebration with over 3,000 people in attendance. There are Puerto Rican, International and Pride festivals held annually. One of my favorite events is the Basketball tournament held in the summer for amazing talented youth across the valley. There is lots to love about the City of Allentown.”

“ My family and I have really enjoyed the diverse opportunities for outdoor recreation offered by the Lehigh Valley. The nationally recognized park systems of the City of Allentown and surrounding areas provide easy access to nature including hiking, mountain biking and running trails; disc golf; community gardening; and kayaking and trout fishing on local streams. Nearby ski areas, white water-rafting, and an international cycling center allow us to play outside year round.”
